

2020 was a challenging year & 2021 is a year of recovery, but both continued to highlight the importance of global Sustainability.

2020 / 2021 provided challenges but also created innovation and highlighted the need for sustainability. The Australia & New Zealand Institute of Sustainable Management (ANZISM) is proud to announce the launch of the “ANZISM Sustainable Awards - 2021” to recognise the achievement of sustainable practitioners.

- Awards for an Individual
- Special Award – Community / Society / Health Initiative
- Awards for a Project or Business Initiative
- Awards for Sustainable Research

These awards are a recognition of excellence and achievement in the use and implementation of Sustainability, as per United Nations – Pillars of Sustainability / Principles of Sustainability / Sustainable Development Goals / Earth Charter.

NOTE: entry is open to all persons involved with sustainability and climate change initiatives. ANZISM is a professional membership body representing organisations and individuals, in New Zealand and Australia, who understand and implement sustainability in their endeavours. Globally, Sustainability is being implemented in all types of initiatives to produce real benefits.

Entries may be submitted in any category and for any size or location. Australian and New Zealand national winners and category winners will be individually announced on 26 November 2021.

Entry details and submission forms can be found at www.anzism.com

Entries close on 11 November 2021 Further details – email – president@anzism.com
